Employees In a Department Store Were Dazed by a $1,000 Bill.

There was one division of one of the The East End fire department made largest department stores along Sixth avenue that suspended business for half an hour one day last week. A woman bought some handkerchiefs and a pair of towels. The clerk footed her bill, 49 cents, and the woman laid a paper bill on the counter.

The manager said, "Madam, what did you buy?"

The woman named over the small articles.

"What did you give the clerk?" "I gave her a dollar bill."

"No; you gave her this, and it is worthless," the manager said sternly. Perspiration stood out on the woman's face as she looked in wonder at the bill. ## CHILDREN AND FIRE-ARMS.

Not a day passes that the newspapers do not chronicle instances of children killed or crippled for life by the handling of fire-arms. Commenting on the subject, a Cleveland paper

"It is of no sort of use to arrest the little fellow who, in play, takes the life of his beloved playmate. Such action is a stigma upon innocence, although perhaps necessary in law. It is the parents who purchase for their children and permit them to handle deadly weapons who should bear the legal stigma, if anybody. A revolver is a dangerous weapon, even in the hands of grown men. Placing it in the hands of children as lieved to be the only one at all tenda plaything is a crime. It is also ing to seriousness. criminal carelessness on the part of parents to look after their children so little that they are suffered to fool with firearms and powder, whether with or without parental consent. Numerous young lives could be saved every year by keeping pistols and guns out of the reach and out of the hands of boys and girls. It is just as wicked and just as foolish to present a pistol to a child and allow him to use it as it would be to give him poison to experiment with.

EDUCATION FOLLOWS THE FLAG. Six hundred teachers will sail from San Francisco for the Philippine islands in a few days. This little army of Americans, enlisted for noble ser vice, has been thoroughly organized. Its term of enlistment is for three years. Free transportation is provided and liberal salaries are paid. The young Filipinos are to be instructed in English, and that language, in a few years, will doubtless replace the polygiot dialects now spoken on the islands Enlightenment follows the flag. The Filipinos are fortunate in being the wards of Uncle Sam. No such experiment in educating the people of a territorial possession was ever before undertaken by any government. It is a wise and generous measure and the results will undoubtedly be great and noble.

Frogs as Scavengers.

Frogs are fine scavengers, destroying great quantities of decaying animal substance in springs and brooks and keeping the water pure, thus proving themselves most worthy of kind treatment and preservation. ## PRACTICE MUST CEASE

THE POPULAR "GOOSE PASTURE" GAME RECEIVES DEATH BLOW.

Mayor Davidson Decrees That the Quiet and Good Order of City Must Be Maintained.

Mayor Davidson's latest decree will conduce to the cessation of the popular and much-practiced pastime known as "goose pasturing" expeditions. This so-called game has recently so increased in popularity as to have reached the point of being a nuisance, and the city executive has determined to put a stop to the practice.

Scores of pistol shot; were fired and a number of bullets are said to have lodged in dangerously close proximity to nearby residences.

This information reached Mayor Davidson yesterday and he immediately informed the officers to arrest any or all persons who attempted in the future to take part in any more midnight pranks which disturb the quiet wages and hours of employment are and good order of the community.

It is stated that many of the fellows who have participated in "goose pasturing" games have been under the influence of liquor and extremely care less in discharging fire arms. While the practice is not only a nuisance, it has become dangerous, and for this reason the mayor has determined to put a stop to it.

dues and assessments are being wasted. The work of reorganization will be an uphill job and a very steep hill at that, but Vice President Hutchins. who has been chosen to lead the work. is a man who has given much time and study to the labor movement; a man who is convincing in his arguments; a man who gives an argument and not a false story; a man who thoroughly understands the conditions he has to contend with; and a man who will give honest work for every dollar he receives from the N. Knowing these facts of the man, and knowing that he will be assisted by many other true men, there are many with hope that at no distant day the convention meets here next May, Mr. Hutchins will be able to show that every dollar expended has brought id front, with plenty of financial backforth fruit. The soil is very barren, ing, and amalgamated under one flag productive. The N. B. of O. P., after waiting until almost irreparable damage has been sustained, has now awakened to the fact and made provisions to regain the lost ground. That success may crown the efforts of Vice President Hutchins and his assistants is the hope of union labor in Trenton, which outside of the potters, is strongly organized.

Cleveland, July 20.-Mayor Tom L. Johnson called his political manager, Director of Public Works Salen, upon the carpet and asked if it were true that political assessment was being taid upon all the city employes.

DAMAGING TO FOSBURG.

Strong Testimony In the Manslaughter Trial.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 20 .- In the Fosburg manslaughter trial a bit of testimony of a sensational nature was the statement of Dr. Paddock, the medical examiner, to the effect that little Beatrice Fosburg, who will be a government witness, told him that the had seen no burglars at all, although she was behind her sister May when the latter fell. Dr. Paddock 2sked young James Fosburg if he had seen any burgiars. James said that be had not.

Dr. Paddock told of the injuries alleged to have been sustained at the hands of burglars, by the Fosburgs, father and son. Mr. Fosburg, the elder, was injured on the knee, had a rib cracked and was much disfigured about the head. The younger man nad a bad contusion on the neck.

General J. H. Whitney, state detective, examined the Fosburg premises on the day of the tragedy. He found the imprint of a hand on the veranda post. He was able to raise the screen cn the window through which the burglars are said to have escaped only 1114 inches. Under a balcony he found two footprints. Fosburg requested him not to tell the chief of colice anything he told him.

Dr. Draper, the gun expert, that the shot which ended the life of May Fosburg was held not more than eight inches from her breast

While I am positive that nothing has been done officially as yet looking toward the settlement of the controversy between the National and the American leagues, it is only a question of time before the thinking men of the two organizations get together and settle the differences. It will be a good thing for the game when this is done.

Professional baseball can be placed on a solid foundation in that way and the chances for further outbreaks and wars practically removed for many years to come.

Both organizations have shown a sol field and ungentlemanly conduct to ward umpires should be severe.

And now comes the most difficult portion of the question of arbitration. Where are the men who will bring about this much desired coalition? I never believed in a big working committee, for what is the business of many is never properly attended to. The adjustment of the troubles might be worked out on what in New York are known as Tammany Hall lines. Let the work go on in districts and the whole be referred to a committee of two for final decision. That is the way suggestions, and Croker names the candidates.

A. G. Spalding would be a good man for the National league to select, and Ban Johnson could not be improved upon as the man to act for the American. Both of these men are deeply interest ed in the success of the game, and any decision arrived at between the two would be equitable to all and satisfactory to the majority. Both men are diplomatic and honest, and each would work for the good of the whole.

Spalding radiates between Chicago and New York, and it would not be a difficult matter for the two to meet and informally discuss the situation. Nobody need be surprised if this very thing should happen before many more moons. There are possibly other men on opposite sides of the baseball fence just as competent to handle the controversy as Spalding and Johnson, but they would not have the whole confidence of their coworkers. Spalding was instrumental largely in settling both the Brotherhood and American association fights, so that he knows just how it ought to be done for the proper preservation of the game.

Many of the clubs have blundered this year not only in the pairing of young pitchers and catchers, but in placing too much dependence upon their young twirlers. The New York team, for instance, started the season with almost untried twirlers, with not a veteran on the list. While the success of the youngsters has been almost phenomenal, the club will be fortunate if it gets through the season with anything like its present position. The experience of the veteran is al ways valuable to the younger twirlers, who generally start in with the idea that they know it all. Too frequently they stumble into blunders which send them back into minor, league company. The Clarkson family shows the value of veteran advice. All four brothers are splendid pitchers, including the present twirler at Harvard. It is ridiculous to think them born pitchers. The pitcher can become proficient only the original Clarkson, had one of the neither graceful nor pretty.

While on the subject of youngsters the success of William Bergen, the catcher of the Cincinnati nine this year, deserves mention. Like his late lamented brother. Bergen selected his home position when he donned the pad and mask. Bergen has the eye of an eagle and the nerve of a Fitzsimmons or McGovern. Punishment does not feaze him, and the swifter the shoots from the pitcher the better he likes them, for he realizes that a slow pitcher will handicap the best of catchers.

Buck Ewing, who was undoubtedly the best catcher who ever stood behind the plate and who has never been excelled as a thrower, once told me that he owed much of his success as a catcher to Welch and Keefe. Those three understood each other thoroughly, and each knew just what to do and when to Bergen is about as near a counterpart of Ewing as any catcher of the present time. His throwing is remarkably accurate and speedy, and with a more hustling team playing with him than the Cincinnatis his record would shine out much brighter than it does. Of the old timers in harness Zimmer, Me-Guire and Kittredge are doing as good work as ever. Still, none of the veteran backstops will ever make the record made by Bushong. "Bush" caught year after year and did it with a grace and ease possessed by no other catcher. He was the only backstop I ever saw who could wear white kid gloves at an evening reception and wear them well. He never had a finger puffed up or disjointed, and I don't believe we ever had another catcher with a like record. The fingers of the average backstop are a through practice and experience. Do you know that there is a certain feature about baseball which resembles swimming-in that once learned it is never forgotten? This has been the experience of hundreds of men who take part in a friendly game after having abandoned baseball for years. The fellow who has pitched will have forgotten much, and the ex-catcher will fumble amazingly at first, but when he goes to the bat he will hit it out and surprise both himself and his friends. I know a well known business man in New York who took part in a club game the other day, but who had not had a bat or ball in his hands for ten years. His batting and throwing were about as good as he ever did in his life, but his running and fielding were atrocious, which simply proves that once a hitter always a hitter.

PRACTICE MUST CEASE

THE POPULAR "GOOSE PASTURE" GAME RECEIVES DEATH BLOW.

Mayor Davidson Decrees That the Quiet and Good Order of City Must Be Maintained.

Mayor Davidson's latest decree will conduce to the cessation of the popular and much-practiced pastime known as "goose pasturing" expeditions. This so-called game has recently so increased in popularity as to have reached the point of being a nuisance, and the city executive has determined to put a stop to the practice.

DAMAGING TO FOSBURG.

Strong Testimony In the Manslaughter Trial.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 20 .- In the Fosburg manslaughter trial a bit of testimony of a sensational nature was the statement of Dr. Paddock, the medical examiner, to the effect that little Beatrice Fosburg, who will be a government witness, told him that she had seen no burglars at all, although she was behind her sister May when the latter fell. Dr. Paddock asked young James Fosburg if he had seen any burgiars. James said that he had not.

Dr. Paddock told of the injuries alleged to have been sustained at the hands of burglars, by the Fosburgs, father and son. Mr. Fosburg, the elder, was injured on the knee, had a rib cracked and was much disfigured about the head. The younger man nad a bad contusion on the neck.

General J. H. Whitney, state detective, examined the Fosburg premises on the day of the tragedy. He found the imprint of a hand on the veranda post. He was able to raise the screen cn the window through which the burglars are said to have escaped only 1114 inches. Under a balcony he found two footprints. Fosburg requested him not to tell the chief of police anything he told him.

Dr. Draper, the gun expert, said that the shot which ended the life of May Fosburg was held not more than through practice and experience. John, eight inches from her breast.

While I am positive that nothing has been done officially as yet looking toward the settlement of the controversy between the National and the American leagues, it is only a question of time before the thinking men of the knowing that he will be assisted by two organizations get together and setmany other true men, there are many the the differences. And now comes the most difficult portion of the question of arbitration. Where are the men who will bring I never believed in a big working committee, for what is the business of many is never properly attended to. The adjustment of the troubles might be worked out on what in New York are known as Tammany Hall lines. Let the work go on in districts and the whole be referred to a committee of two for final decision. That is the way of Croker. His lieutenants make the suggestions, and Croker names the can

A. G. Spalding would be a good man for the National league to select, and Ban Johnson could not be improved upon as the man to act for the American. Both of these men are deeply interest ed in the success of the game, and any decision arrived at between the two would be equitable to all and satisfactory to the majority. Both men are diplomatic and honest, and each would work for the good of the whole.

Spalding radiates between Chicago and New York, and it would not be a difficult matter for the two to meet and informally discuss the situation. Nobody need be surprised if this very thing should happen before many more moons. There are possibly other men on opposite sides of the baseball fence just as competent to handle the controversy as Spalding and Johnson, but they would not have the whole confidence of their coworkers. Spalding was instrumental largely in settling both the Brotherhood and American association fights, so that he knows just how it ought to be done for the proper preservation of the game.

Many of the clubs have blundered this year not only in the pairing of young pitchers and catchers, but in placing too much dependence upon their young twirlers. The New York team, for instance, started the season with almost untried twirlers, with not a veteran on the list. While the success of the youngsters has been almost phenomenal, the club will be fortunate if it gets through the season with anything like its present position. The experience of the veteran is always valuable to the younger twirlers, who generally start in with the idea that they know it all. Too frequently they stumble into blunders which send them back into minor, league company. The Clarkson family shows the value of veterau advice. All four brothers are splendid pitchers, including the present twirler at Harvard. It is ridiculous to think them born pitchers. The pitcher can become proficient only the original Clarkson, had one of the neither graceful nor pretty.

> best "thinking caps" I ever saw on the diamond, and it was his coaching of the younger brothers that developed their pitching instincts. A team with too much young blood is as poorly off as one with too much old timber. The ideal playing team is produced by judiciously mixing the two. Hanlon's remarkable success in baseball aptly illustrates this.

While on the subject of youngsters the success of William Bergen, the catcher of the Cincinnati nine this year, deserves mention. Like his late lamented brother, Bergen selected his home position when he donned the pad and mask. Bergen has the eye of an eagle and the nerve of a Fitzsimmons or McGovern. Punishment does not feaze him, and the swifter the shoots from the pitcher the better he likes them, for he realizes that a slow pitcher will handicap the best of catchers.

Buck Ewing, who was undoubtedly the best catcher who ever stood behind the plate and who has never been excelled as a thrower, once told me that be owed much of his success as a catcher to Welch and Keefe. Those three understood each other thoroughly, and each knew just what to do and when to

Bergen is about as near a counterpart of Ewing as any catcher of the present time. His throwing is remarkably accurate and speedy, and with a more bustling team playing with bim than the Cincinnatis his record would shine out much brighter than it does. Of the old timers in harness Zimmer, Mc-Guire and Kittredge are doing as good work as ever. Still, none of the veteran backstops will ever make the record made by Bushong. "Bush" caught year after year and did it with a grace and ease possessed by no other catcher. He was the only backstop I ever saw who could wear white kid gloves at an evening reception and wear them well. He never had a finger puffed up or disjointed, and I don't believe we ever had another catcher with a like record. The fingers of the average backstop are a mass of serpentine twists and bumps

Captain Channing is writing to Langdon now and has written to an elder brother who is general manager of the Seattle's greatest rival, the Missouri Valley. Now, there is trouble on both roads, and men are very much needed, so I think Langdon will be provided for in the near future. I hope Ethel did not allow herself to be much disturbed?" and when the major finished In this half interrogative way it was meant to imply that while he might be hopeful he was by no means confident. He had known Ethel, a beloved sister's only child, since her babyhood and knew her to be fearless, resolute and anything but politic. He was wondering as he stroked with his one disengaged hand the heavy brown mustache what Ethel might have said in reply to Mrs. Nathan.

But there was no immediate opporstunity for inquiring. The papers that had deluged the post with Chicago's version of the scandals at Sheridan had reached Pawnee that day, some 30 hours old, and second in local interest were the details of the serious situation on some of the great transcontinental railways. Officials and operatives had come to the final clinch. An ultimatum had been prepared "in the interests of labor." If not acceded to by the managers within 24 hours, not only the granscontinentals complete, but the Sesattle and Missouri Valley roads, would the tied up forthwith.

Before Mrs, Melville could frame her reply to the major's question there came a step on the piazza, a ring at the hall bell, and then "Cat's" voice was heard in an animated converse with some companion. Melville himself opened the door to bid them enter-the colonel and his silent adjutant.

"Melville, here's a go!" began the commanding officer, without preliminary of any kind. "I'm ordered to send a reliable officer at once to Omaha to act under special instructions that are to meet him there, and you're the most reliable man I have. Can you make the night train?"

everal of the battery officers went down to see their leader off. Channing, too, was there and led the major aside a moment. CHAPTER V. Ninety miles west of the "Big Missouri" and in the heart of the thriving town of Brentwood the rival lines of the Chicago and Seattle and the Chicago and Missouri Valley, popularly known respectively as the "Seattle" and the "Big Horn," crossed each other and the beautiful stream that drainced the valley. The Pawnees long ages :ago had called it after the prairie wolf, but their despoilers, the Sioux, rechristened it Red Water, declaring it so thick with the blood of their hereditary foes that it had lost all semblance of Dine, and Red Water it remained in name, at least, hough it speedily lost the sanguinary tint and outvied all the storied streams of Indian land in that it never sulked and sank out of sight in beds of quicksand, never turned into raging torrent and tore things out by the roots, as did the mountain born "Minnes" and "Wakpas" that streaked the lands of the Dakotas to the north, never failed to freeze over in clear, solid ice at the appropriate time in the early winter and to bubble forth again, sparkling and smiling, in the early spring. Fed by innumerable springs and brooks from pine crested heights where the snow lay deep all winter long and only slowly melted for the northering sun, draining a broad, beautiful and fertile valley through which at meandered in long, sweeping, graceful bends and "reaches," moving serenely, steadily, placidly, through mile after mile of fair and peaceful landscape, rarely ruffled by the gales that there had been no wanton destruction tswept the uplands long, long leagues the west or stirred by the savage flock the blackguard element of the Mizzards that tore through the Dakota community, and the news that troops wastes, it drew to its willow shaded shores by hundreds the hardy settlers perate deeds. That night the wintry and pioneers-the farmer, rancher and herdsman. Brentwood became the market town and grew apace. Rail- sheds and an elevator went up in * ways from St. Paul and St. Louis crawled and from Chicago scrambled thither, and before the Sioux were fairly out of the country and the settlers fairly in Brentwood the Red Water valley was the objective point of half a dozen corporations. Brentwood grew from market town to country seat, to railway terminus (a bad time that), to division station, with roundnouse and machine and car snops. Brentwood dammed the Red Water and began grinding its own wheat before Minneapolis reached for it. Brentwood jumped from a population of 15 to 15,000 in less than ten years, and now the Seattle and the Big Horn had when, through the Western Union, the handsome stone depot buildings, The St. Louis and Northwestern had graded to within ten miles of the town, and the Minneapolis and Southwestern had a spur that tapped mills, elevators and factories and a switch engine that screamed defiance at those of the big transcontinentals. The Seattle was not built through to "the sound" by any manner of means, and the "Big Horn," for which its rival was named, looked very little when viewed from the outermost stake. But the grain and cattle business was tremendous, if through passenger was not. Chicago took all the wheat and corn and live stock the Red Water valley could spare and eagerly bid for more. But a bad time had come for the Seattle and Big Horn both. Long, long lines of grain and cattle cars, especially cattle, stretched westward on both main line and sidings from Brentwood. The mercury had dropped to within a few degrees of zero. A thousand horned cattle and five times as many sheep and hogs were clamoring for food and water and couldn't get it, for a thousand angered men in the various shops and yards of the Seattle and as many in the Big Horn had sworn no wheel should turn and no hand should minister until "the road" came to their terms. If the trains had been passenger coaches and the passengers hungry and thirsty women and children, the rule would have been the same. The strikers proved that in a later and fiercer grapple when the authority of even the United States was set at naught by the labor leader who established his headquarters in Chicago and checked the commerce of the world. But this earlier insurrection against law and order was serious enough in all conscience. For 24 hours only the barracks, stables and gun sheds," said mail trains had been allowed to leave he, "draw 30 carbines from the cavalthe Chicago stations. For 24 hours ry, let your men leave their sabers and east bound passenger trains had been go with carbine and revolver, then side tracked at faraway towns in the you'll be uniform with the troopers." interior. Train crews were coaxed or "Cat" thought that when a soldier was driven from their posts. The few de- uniform with a trooper he couldn't be mained steadfast were assaulted and mobbed, and away out here at Brentwood the division shops poured forth an array of strikers who, aided by gangs of tramps from all over the west and toughs from the Missouri river towns, were more than sufficient to bid defiance to a dozen sheriffs' posses and to ditch a trainload of Pinkertons three days' march away. The national guard was on duty in Chicago, and the governor of Nebraska had ordered out such militia as was then organized. The people of Dakota, just budding into twin star statehood, had appealed for federal troops, but at Brentwood the striker had full sway. Two companies of militia arriving to re-enforce the local command found a few of the latter wandering disconsolately about in small squads and civilian dress, the laughing stock of the town, the leaders of the strike having early and thought- been burried to Chicago and the Misfully possessed themselves of their arms, armory and uniforms. Received with ironical cheers, the newcomers sought to communicate with the sheriff, as their instructions required. Polite and sympathetic citizens bade them remain aboard the train and they would be switched over into the yards of the Seattle, where the sheriff was reported holding out as best he could. They remained, were switched as promised not only to but beyond the yards-40 miles beyond, in fact-at breathless speed and bidden to camp people woke up to the realization that there until they were hauled back and to live meantime on the country. For over 24 hours the strikers had things sympathy with the operatives. All of all their own way and were jubilant Then came the backward sweep of the tide. A wire from the south announced that regulars were in possession at Omaha, Council Bluffs and Sioux City and that a little battalion was on its way to the relief of Brentwood, and still the starving and imprisoned live stock based, bellowed and squealed for food and water. Still passenger traffic was at a stand. The division superintendent and his assistants were powerless. Though they manned engines, threw switches and "braked" cars, the rails were soaped, the boilers foamed and their engines were "killed"

Orders were orders. day, sent certain telegrams to eastern points and one to old Fort Pawnee, far away to the south, got a light breakfast | the battalion of militia had turned out and another buggy at the hotel and drove out to the yards. When he returned, an hour before noon, the eyes of many citizens followed him in eager curiosity. The first of the regulars was here. At 2 o'clock the news was whispered about the streets that a big force of strikers had gone down to the narrows of the valley where the Red Water, turning from the rectitude of its ways, lashed and foamed between rocky bluffs and heights and the rival lines, Scattle and Big Horn, twisted and turned for some 20 miles not 400 yards apart. A troop train had left the river bent on forcing a way to Brentwood, and in desperation the strike leaders had determined to topple it into the stream.

EVENING NEWS RESTEN, EAST LIVE-OOL, OHIO.

It was but a few minutes after 2 stranger received the following dis-

Major Melville, U. S. A., Brentwood:

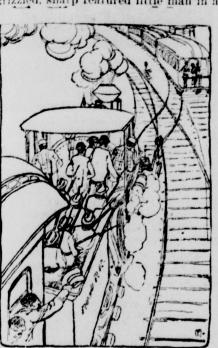

Nathan reports serious obstacles. Strikers op-posing movement of train every mile. He has only 100 men. Four companies state militia go out by M. V. at once and may get first to Red Water gorge. The two commands should act in

The major replaced the dispatch in its envelope, stowed the packet in an inner pocket and walked slowly from the office into the slanting sunshine without. The street was filled with men sauntering up and down or gathered in knots at the corners. It was a still, wintry afternoon, though but little snow as yet had fallen east of the mountains. Melville noted that all eyes were on him, but not in open hostility. Whatever the hands might have in store for the officials of the road or for trainloads of troops, their rancor took no shape against a single man, apparently, even actually, unarmed. Melville carried neither flask nor pistol. He was reflecting on the mecirriage of the plans for the concentration of troops so far as Brentwood was concerned and wondering by what evil chance Nathan had been chosen to command the detachment ordered thither from the south. It was odd to think of light artillery men being so employed at any time, but these were the economical days. Companies, batteries and "troops" could rarely muster more than 30 men for duty. Pawnee's garrison had been split up and sent to three or four important points, and, being senior in date of commission to the two cavalry captains sent with it, Nathan had been given the lead, and Nathan looked anything but blissful when "Old Cat" ordered him off. "Leave enough men to care for your better off: Nathan thought he couldn't be worse. Next to an Indian Nathan hated a mob. Two hours from the time the orders reached him the command was ready to go, but not so Nathan. Two days from the time they started they were still two days' march from Brentwood, and their train met no detention whatever until it got weil into northern Nebraska. Then it was found so easy to induce the commanding officer to believe that the track was all torn up just ahead or that strikers had blown up or burned down bridges that sympathizers with the wageworkers kept up the practice at every station, and Nathan was sending dispatch after dispatch to Omaha the tidings of which, when it all came to be investigated, proved utterly untrue, as the general held them to be at the time, and naturally he grew indignant and nervous. While most of the troops had sissippi crossings, the garrisons west of Omaha had been ordered to rendezvous there or go direct to other designated points in the northwest. Brentwood was making no great trouble. was the first report. Two or three companies of state militia were all that was needed, according to the original views of the authorities, and they were sent there, with the result that jeering telegrams came back to the magnates, the marshals and the military authorities called into action. All of a sudden Brentwood was a railroad town and the whole community practically in a sudden the news came flashing over the wires that Captain Nathan, with 100 men from Fort Pawnee, had been stoned and compelled to retire when his command was detrained at Gunnison, and, though officers and men declared their readiness to push ahead afoot, their cautious captain forbade any man to push a foot ahead until he could again communicate by wire with department headquarters. "What did I tell you?" growled the veteran Indian fighter, now taking his first turn of any consequence against the mob. "You've heard the old saying, 'An army of sheep led by a lion can whip an army of lions led by a sheep,' and that's what's side tracked now at Gunnison."

And at the very moment that Nathan was holding back there, alarmed and irresolute, with 100 fighting men ready for any duty and chafing at their commander's inaction, another troop train came steaming into the station. Two alert, clear eyed, sturdy men in civilian dress sprang from the engine cab, and at sight of the foremost the men who had so easily daunted the commanding glare of a mile of flame. Captain Clark, get your men aboard your car instantly. Captain Geisenheimer, this is the second time I've spoken to you. Go to the rear car in arrest! Lieutenant Meinecke, take command of the company and the company to the car. I told you supper would be ready for all hands at 5 o'clock. It's only 4. Back to the train, every mother's son of you! Back!" And, somewhat crestfallen, somewhat awed and abashed, yet realizing that the little major "meant business," back they went, still keeping up the semblance of jocularity by horseplay and racing. Then out came the first of the newly arrived civilians, followed by the younger, a silent man.

"All serene for ten miles anyhow. major, but you might put four of your best men on the pilot and tender. We will be there too. All right, Mac!" he sang out to the engineer. "We push ahead as soon as we get this gang aboard. Look at the regulars' train up the track. They're not straggling all over creation!"

"No, and they ain't gittin ahead any too fast either," snickered the station agent. "It's taken 'em two hours to come 20 miles, and now the cap's wait-in for orders." [TO BE CONTINUED.]

Nothan's uncle to whom he applied and there are other roads open to here in that exact less and pay far i ... than railroads, only Langdon always had a predilection for rallway engineering and service. Captain Channing is writing to Langdon now and has written to an elder brother who is general manager of the Seattle's greatest rival, the Missouri Val ley. Now, there is trouble on both roads, and men are very much needed. so I think Langdon will be provided for in the near future. I hope Ethel did not allow herself to be much-disturbed?" and when the major finished in this half interrogative way it was meant to imply that while he might be hopeful he was by no means confident. He had known Ethel, a beloved sister's only child, since her babyhood and knew her to be fearless, resolute and anything but politic. He was wondering as he stroked with his one disengaged hand the heavy brown mustache what Ethel might have said in reply to Mrs. Nathan.

But there was no immediate opportunity for inquiring. The papers that had deluged the post with Chicago's version of the scandals at Sheridan had reached Pawnee that day, some 30 hours old, and second in local interest were the details of the serious situation on some of the great transcontinental railways. Officials and operatives had come to the final clinch. An ultimatum had been prepared "in the interests of Labor." If not acceded to by the managers within 24 hours, not only the Armscontinentals complete, but the Sesattle and Missouri Valley roads, would the tied up forth with.

Before Mrs, Melville could frame her reply to the major's question there came a step on the plazza, a ring at the hall bell, and then "Cat's" voice was heard in an animated converse with some companion. Melville himself opened the door to bid them enter-the colonel and his silent adjutant.

"Melville, here's a go!" began the commanding officer, without preliminary of any kind. "I'm ordered to send a reliable officer at once to Omaha to act under special instructions that are to meet him there, and you're the most reliable man I have. Can you make the night train?"

"Easily, colonel." "So be it, then. I'll have the orders made out at once.

Several of the battery officers went n moment. "I've written direct to Langdon," he said, "and given him letters to my brother with instructions how to find him. He'll be somewhere out on the line now, I suppose. The only question is, Will Langdon be well enough?"

Melville pondered a moment before the replied:

"Nelson wrote three days ago that it paight be a week-that would be till Priday, say. This is Wednesday night. I fancy he'll hardly be strong enough, Channing, but thank you all the same."

Yet when Friday evening came it brought a dispatch for Channing that gave him keen anxiety:

Letter for Langdon here. He disappeared durusing morning. No trace.

CHAPTER V. Ninety miles west of the "Big Missouri" and in the heart of the thriving town of Brentwood the rival lines of the Chicago and Seattle and the Chicago and Missouri Valley, popularly known respectively as the "Seattle" Ind the "Big Horn," crossed each other and the beautiful stream that drainced the valley. The Pawnees long ages ago had called it after the prairie wolf, but their despoilers, the Sioux, rechristened it Red Water, declaring it so Thick with the blood of their hereditary foes that it had lost all semblance of Dine, and Red Water it remained in mame, at least, though it speedily lost the sanguinary tint and outvied all the storied streams of Indian land in that it never sulked and sank out of sight in beds of quicksand, never turned into raging torrent and tore things out by the roots, as did the mountain born "Minnes" and "Wakpas" that streaked the lands of the Dakoths to the north, never failed to freeze over in clear, solid ice at the appropriate time in the early winter and to bubble forth again, sparkling and smiling, in the early spring. Fed by innumerable springs and brooks from pine crested heights where the snow lay deep all winter long and only slowly melted for the northering sun, draining a broad, beautiful and fertile valley through which at meandered in long, sweeping, graceful bends and "reaches," moving serenely, steadily, placidly, through mile after mile of fair and peaceful landscape, rarely ruffled by the gales that tswept the uplands long, long leagues of property, but to such scenes ever mander's inaction, another troop train to the west or stirred by the savage flock the blackguard element of the Brentwood grew from market town to country seat, to railway terminus (a bad time that), to division station, with roundnouse and machine and car snops. Brentwood dammed the Red Water and began grinding its own wheat before Minneapolis reached for it. Long, long lines of grain and cattle cars, especially cattle, in store for the officials of the road or stretched westward on both main line and sidings from Brentwood. The mercury had dropped to within a few degrees of zero. A thousand horned cattle and five times as many sheep and hogs were clamoring for food and water and couldn't get it, for a thousand angered men in the various shops and yards of the Seattle and as many chance Nathan had been chosen to in the Big Horn had sworn no wheel should turn and no hand should minister until "the road" came to their terms. The light weight season will soon open, and although it is expected that concessions of from 5 to 10 per cent from last year's price will be made there is prospect of profitable operation unless the raw material should advance. Some uncertainty is seen in the wool market, sellers making future efforts to secure better terms and ultimately accepting bids at former figures. The tone is distinctly firmer and stocks at mills and in warehouses decrease.

Dr. Chare's Ointment draws more praise from ministers, physicians and lawyers that any other medicine in the world. It is entorsed by every profession.

Extracts from their Letters.

Rev. W. N. Edwards, Baptist minister. David Boyce, 109 Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: L. M. Kelly Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:
For over fifteen years the itching piles B. C. Simus have been a source of constant annoyance to me, and frequently, too, the suffering has become intense. At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond CAPITAL endurance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. I feel it a duty to fellow sufferers to recommend it."

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minle

ter, Albion, Wis., writes "My wife was terribly afflicted with protruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure."

"I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled medical skill for twenty-five years. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold."

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

" For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. 1 used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. 1 have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me.

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 192 Dunn avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

"Ten years ago eczema began on my ears and spread over my head and hands. ing that time I was a great sufferer. I tried many remedies, and some of the best physicians—specialists on skin diseases—treated me. The first box of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave much relief and five boxes completely cured me. I think my cure a marvel, and gladly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment." Just as good for every form of skip trouble, no matter how long standing, 5c cents a box, all dealers or Dr. A. W. in Burning, Itching, Bleeding Skir Troubles by Dr. Chase's Ointment

Dr. Chare's Ointment draws more praise from ministers, physicians and lawyers that any other medicine in the world. It is encorsed by every profession.

Extracts from their Letters.

Rev. W. N. Edwards, Baptist minister David Boyce, 109 Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: For over fifteen years the itching piles B. C. Simius have been a source of constant annoyance to me, and frequently, too, the suffering has become intense. At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond endurance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. I feel it a duty to fellow sufferers to recommend it."

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minis ter, Albion, Wis., writes

"My wife was terribly afflicted with protruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr.

Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure. "I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled medical skill for twenty-five years. Dr. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold."

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

" For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. 1 have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me.'

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 192 "Ten years ago eczema began on my ears and spread over my head and hands. During that time I was a great sufferer. I tried many remedies, and some of the best physicians-specialists on skin diseases-treated me. The first box of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave much relief and five boxes completely cured me. I think my cure a marvel, and gladly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment." Then, again, he thought, the owner probably lost it and might need it. So he put it back. He was a methodical man, and he replaced it exactly as he had found it. ## An Editor and a Golden Halr.

"One beautiful spring morning an editor found a golden hair lying between the pages of a manuscript,' writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "The moment he reached the page it gracefully fluttered out. Flushed with excitement, the editor 14-tf caught it. It was not his hair, he argued, therefore it was not his property. Then, again, he thought, the owner probably lost it and might need it. So he put it back. He was a methodical man, and he replaced it exactly as he had found it. He was not many days older when he received a letter proving by the very hair he had so dexterously. caught and conscientiously replaced that he never had read or even opened the manuscript of the writer. THE MIKADO'S SUCCESSORS Birth of a Son to the Crown Prince

Delights the Loyal Japanese. Japan has not yet stopped rejoicing over the birth of an heir to Crown Prince Yoshihito, which happy event! occurred a short time ago. The Japanese are for the most part very loyal to the reigning dynasty. This trait of their character may well be hereditary, for loyalty to the same dynasty was common in Japan as far back as 600

CROWN PRINCE YOSHIHITO OF JAPAN. than 2,500 years, and the newly born and father in regular succession, will be the one hundred and twenty-fourth mikado or emperor of his line.

Japanese law allows a prince to succeed to the throne provided that he is the son of the emperor by either the empress or a secondary wife. This is to insure a regular succession from father to son. Neither the present emperor, Mutsuhito, nor his son, Yoshihito, is the son of an empress. It is added matter of rejoicing for the Japanese that the new prince was born to Princess Sadako, the regularly married wife of Yoshihito. Their marriage was celebrated on May 10, 1900.

Crown Prince Yoshihito was born on Aug. 31, 1879, and was proclaimed heir to the throne just eight years later. His wife, the future empress, is a number of years younger and is related to the prince. She is, according to fapanese accounts, a beautiful and highly educated young woman. It has long been thought that Yoshihito will not live long enough to succeed his imperial father. He has never been very strong and is thought to have a tendency toward consumption. He is short, judged by foreign standards, although of medium Japanese height. Prince Yoshihito has been carefully watched and nursed by his father. The empress is also strongly attached to the young man, although he is not her son. New Haven, Con., July 20.-The tug Gertrude brought in New Haven harbor the two survivors of a party of seven and news of the worst yacht ing fatality that Long Island Sound has known in years. On board the Gertrude were Mrs. Walter G. The weather became squally, and although Colburn advised Flint several times to take in some of the canvass, he did not do so. As a result the yacht capsized and sank. Mrs. Sprankle and Stanridge were thrown in the water, and grasping one of the yacht's small boats, then adrift, managed to hold on until sighted by the

for Days.

The point has almost arrived in the great strike which is bound to test ville today, there is vigilant watchfulness on the part of the strikers non-union men be brought in by the mill officials. The strikers say they will observe President Shaffer's advice and refrain from violence.

The Wellsville improvement board, composed of all the business men in town, had a meeting Thursday morning. Nothing was done in regard to the strike, although there was a great deal of talk. The board could not agree upon anything. J. C. Catlett, a prominent member, said that no resolution had been passed.

Reports of non-union men being shipped here from Pittsburg are printed in the Pittsburg papers. Mill men and the Amalgamated officials do not credit them. They say it would be no victory for the mill owners to run the Wellsville plant unless they could run it with Wellsville men. Several of the Pittsburg papers assert that the attempt to start up the mill in full with imported men is to be made Monday morning. Time will tell.

No belief is placed in the report that the mill may be moved to Vandergrift. Citizens say there are not enough men to run the mills already

Employees In a Department Store Were Dazed by a $1,000 Bill.

There was one division of one of the largest department stores along Sixth avenue that suspended business for half an hour one day last week. A woman bought some handkerchiefs and a pair of towels. The clerk footed her bill, 49 cents, and the woman laid

The clerk, a girl, looked at it hastily. It read $1,000. She had never seen a thousand dollar bill before in her life, and the amazement it caused made her speechless. With her mouth open in wonder she made out the check, showing that 49 cents was to be taken out of $1,000. The girl who acts as cashier fell back in her chair when she saw the bill. She didn't have change for it, and after gazing at it in wondering admiration for a moment she rushed out to find the manager. He asked for the customer who had offered it, and the girl led the way to where the woman was waiting. The clerk had recovered from her surprise enough to point out the customer.

The manager said, "Madam, what did you buy?

The woman named over the small articles.

"What did you give the clerk?" "I gave her a dollar bill."

"No; you gave her this, and it is worthless," the manager said sternly. Perspiration stood out on the woman's face as she looked in wonder at the bill. She fished a dollar out of a handbag she carried and paid. By that time she had figured out an explanalook as much like money as the counterfeiting laws of the country will per-

CHILDREN AND FIRE-ARMS.

Not a day passes that the newspapers do not chronicle instances of children killed or crippled for life by the handling of fire-arms. Commenting on the subject, a Cleveland paper says:

"It is of no sort of use to arrest the little fellow who, in play, takes the life of his beloved playmate. Such action is a stigma upon innocence, although perhaps necessary in law. It is the parents who purchase for their children and permit them to handle deadly weapons who should bear the legal stigma, if anybody. It was only the other day that a mother of five children was shot to death, at Youngstown, by a young tad. No amount of regrets on the part of that boy's parents can restore the mother to those little ones, and it would seem that one forces. such object lesson would suffice to cause a general clearing of all homes of children's revolvers and rifles."

A revolver is a dangerous weapon, even in the hands of grown men. Placing it in the hands of children as lieved to be the only one at all tenda plaything is a crime. It is also ing to seriousness. criminal carelessness on the part of parents to look after their children so little that they are suffered to fool with firearms and powder, whether with or without parental consent. Numerous young lives could be saved every year by keeping pistols and guns out of the reach and out of the hands of boys and girls. It is just as wicked and just as foolish to present a pistol to a child and allow him to use it as it would be to give him poison to experiment with.

PRACTICE MUST CEASE

THE POPULAR "GOOSE PASTURE" GAME RECEIVES DEATH BLOW.

Mayor Davidson Decrees That the Quiet and Good Order of City Must Be Maintained.

Mayor Davidson's latest decree will conduce to the cessation of the popular and much-practiced pastime known as "goose pasturing" expeditions. This so-called game has recently so increased in popularity as to have reached the point of being a nuisance, and the city executive has determined to put a stop to the practice.

Scores of complaints have been made to the mayor by persons who have been aroused from their slumbers at nights by pistol shots and other noise incidental to the carrying in all branches who look forward thing for the game when this is done. out of the torturesome initiation of a "goose pasture" subject. The most favored location has been along the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad in the vicinity of the Thompson pottery.

Thursday night a victim was "put through the mill," and the game was carried to such an extremity that the entire populace in the neighborhood of the Thompson plant was badly frightened. Scores of pistol shot; were fired and a number of bullets are said to have lodged in dangerously close proximity to nearby residences.

This information reached Mayor Davidson yesterday and he immediately informed the officers to arrest any or all persons who attempted in the future to take part in any more midnight pranks which disturb the quiet and good order of the community.

It is stated that many of the fellows who have participated in "goose pasturing" games have been under the influence of liquor and extremely careless in discharging fire arms. While the practice is not only a nuisance, it has become dangerous, and for this reason the mayor has determined to put a stop to it.

Queer Turkish Fish.

April 19 is the great fete day of "Balukli," or place of fishes. This is a small church situated outside the walls of Constantinople, and it enjoyed no particular reputation before the conquest of Constantinople by the Turks. At the time of the invasion, however, a was cooking some fish there when a messenger came and told him that the Turks had entered Constantinople. The monk did not believe the story and said he would sooner believe that the half cooked fish would jump back into the water. As he spoke the fish jumped back into the water, and since then the place has had a great reputation for its healing powers.

A church has been built over the spring dedicated to "Our Lady of the Fishes," and on this day a regular pilgrimage takes place from all parts of today. the town. Many sick are carried thither, and many miraculous cures are reported. The truth of the story is proved MONEY ORDERED RETURNED. by the presence in a large marble lined tank in the church of the lineal descendants of the half cooked fish. Any one who does not believe has only to look in the water, and he will see them. brown on one side and white on the other, swimming about at their ease.

Sea Bathing.

A person can easily determine with one indulgence whether or not open air bathing is burtful to him. If circulation is speedily restored after he has left the water, if his skin is well reddened and be is soon well warmed up and as strong and "lively" as when he took his first plunge, then he may properly assume that his bath has done him good. If, on the other hand, his skin continues cold and clammy for 15 or 20 minutes, notwithstanding the brisk rubbing he gives himself, and for an hour or more afterward he is weak, dull and languid, then he may be tolerably certain that there is something wrong with him which forbids cold

THE SITUATION

dues and assessments are being wasted. The work of reorganization will be an uphill job and a very steep hill at that, but Vice President Hutchins. who has been chosen to lead the work, is a man who has given much time and study to the labor movement; a man who is convincing in his arguments; a man who gives an argument and not a false story; a man who thoroughly understands the conditions he has to contend with; and a man who will give honest work for every dollar he receives from the N. B. of O. P. notwithstanding the stories of waste of money being circulated. Knowing these facts of the man, and knowing that he will be assisted by with hope that at no distant day the N. B. of O. P. will have a strong following in this city and that when the convention meets here next May, Mr. Hutchins will be able to show that forth fruit. The soil is very barren, ing, and amalgamated under one flag but with fertilizers it can be made productive. The N. B. of O. P., after waiting until almost irreparable damage has been sustained, has now awakened to the fact and made provisions to regain the lost ground. That success may crown the efforts of Vice President Hutchins and his assistants is the hope of union labor in Trenton, which outside of the pot ters, is strongly organized.

Among the trades that control wages and hours of employment are the printers, compositors, pressmen and bookbinders; carpenters, paint ers, plumbers, tin smiths, electrical workers, lathers, machinists (some men now out on strike), molders, hodcarriers, horsehoers, cigar makers, barbers, brewers, bottlers, musicians, rubber works, all of which are affilia ted with the Central Labor union, to which the potters' locals also send representatives, and every one of these unions will render all aid possible to the potters. And assistance may be counted on from several unions not connected with the central union, such as the bricklayers and plasterers, the stone masons, the stone cutters and several other trades.

The potters have more men em ployed in this city than any other trade and should be the best organized: at one time they were strong. and it is possible for them to be again. The first steps have been taken to that end, but time alone can demonstrate whether or not the men will be led by the bosses' emissaries, or by true men who have the welfare of humanity at heart. Mayor Tom Johnson Will Not Allow Assessments Upon Employes For Political Campaign.

Cleveland, July 20.-Mayor Tom L. Johnson called his political manager, Director of Public Works Salen, upon the carpet and asked if it were true that political assessment was being taid upon all the city employes.

Salen said he "guessed the boys were being asked to chip in as usual." A verbal skirmish ended in the mayor asking: "Can you get your ands on the men who are doing this collecting? "I think I can." "Bring 'em in."

In 10 minutes two minor employes were "in the presence.

"Let me see your books," demanded Mayor Johnson. The books were produced and inspected. "Ah, a 2 per cent assessment, eh? Well, now, you give every cent of that money back. and if I hear of any more of this sort of thing-

But, Tom, how are you going to un the fall campaign?" gasped Salen. "Not by taking away the salaries to city employes," was the answer. Let the various candidates produce and let any Democrat who wants to voluntarily give, do so, and then I'll nelp a little, too."

DAMAGING TO FOSBURG.

Strong Testimony In the Manslaughter Trial.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 20 .- In the Fosburg manslaughter trial a bit of testimony of a sensational nature was the statement of Dr. Paddock, the medical examiner, to the effect that little Beatrice Fosburg, who will be a government witness, told him that she had seen no burglars at all, although she was behind her sister May when the latter fell. Dr. Paddock 2sked young James Fosburg if he had seen any burgiars. James said that

Dr. Paddock told of the injuries alleged to have been sustained at the hands of burglars, by the Fosburgs, father and son. Mr. Fosburg, the elder, was injured on the knee, had a rib cracked and was much disfigured about the head. The younger man nad a bad contusion on the neck.

General J. H. Whitney, state detective, examined the Fosburg premises on the day of the tragedy. He found the imprint of a hand on the veranda post. He was able to raise the screen they stumble into blunders which send cn the window through which the burglars are said to have escaped only 114 inches. Under a balcony he found two footprints. Fosburg requested him not to tell the chief of police anything he told him.

And now comes the most difficult portion of the question of arbitration. Where are the men who will bring about this much desired coalition? I never believed in a big working committee, for what is the business of many is never properly attended to. The adjustment of the troubles might be worked out on what in New York are known as Tammany Hall lines. Let the work go on in districts and the whole be referred to a committee of two for final decision. That is the way suggestions, and Croker names the can-

A. G. Spalding would be a good man for the National league to select, and Ban Johnson could not be improved upon as the man to act for the American. Both of these men are deeply interest ed in the success of the game, and any decision arrived at between the two would be equitable to all and satisfactory to the majority. Both men are diplomatic and honest, and each would work for the good of the whole.

Spalding radiates between Chicago and New York, and it would not be a difficult matter for the two to meet and informally discuss the situation. Nobody need be surprised if this very thing should happen before many more moons. There are possibly other men on opposite sides of the baseball fence just as competent to handle the controversy as Spalding and Johnson, but they would not have the whole confidence of their coworkers. Spalding was instrumental largely in settling both the Brotherhood and American association fights, so that he knows just how it ought to be done for the proper preservation of the game.

Many of the clubs have blundered this year not only in the pairing of young pitchers and catchers, but in placing too much dependence upon their young twirlers. The New York team, for instance, started the season with almost untried twirlers, with not a veteran on the list. While the success of the youngsters has been almost if it gets through the season with anything like its present position.

The experience of the veteran is always valuable to the younger twirlers, who generally start in with the idea that they know it all. Too frequently them back into minor, league company. The Clarkson family shows the value of veteran advice. All four brothers are splendid pitchers, including the present twirler at Harvard. It is ridiculous to think them born pitchers. Like his late lamented brother, Bergen selected his home position when he donned the pad and mask. Bergen has the eye of an eagle and the nerve of a Fitzsimmons or McGovern. Punishment does not feaze him, and the swifter the shoots from the pitcher the better he likes them, for he realizes that a slow pitcher will handlcap the best of catchers.

Buck Ewing, who was undoubtedly the best catcher who ever stood behind the plate and who has never been excelled as a thrower, once told me that he owed much of his success as a catcher to Welch and Keefe. Those three understood each other thoroughly, and each knew just what to do and when to do it.

Captain Channing is writing to Langdon now and has written to an elder brother who is general manager of the Seattle's greatest rival, the Missouri Valley. Now, there is trouble on both roads, and men are very much needed, so I think Langdon will be provided for in the near future. I hope Ethel did not allow herself to be much-disturbed?" and when the major finished in this half interrogative way it was meant to imply that while he might be hopeful he was by no means confident. He had known Ethel, a beloved sister's only child, since her babyhood and knew her to be fearless, resolute and anything but politic. He was wondering as he stroked with his one disengaged hand the heavy brown mustache what Ethel might have said in reply to Mrs. Nathan.

But there was no immediate opportunity for inquiring. The papers that had deluged the post with Chicago's version of the scandals at Sheridan had reached Pawnee that day, some 30 bours old, and second in local interest were the details of the serious situation on some of the great transcontinental railways. Officials and operatives had come to the final clinch. An ultimatum had been prepared "in the interests of labor." If not acceded to by the managers within 24 hours, not only the granscontinentals complete, but the Seatte and Missouri Valley roads, would The tied up forthwith.

Before Mrs, Melville could frame her reply to the major's question there came a step on the plazza, a ring at the hall bell, and then "Cat's" voice was heard in an animated converse with some companion. Melville himself opened the door to bid them enter-the colonel and his silent adjutant.

"Melville, here's a go!" began the commanding officer, without preliminary of any kind. "I'm ordered to send a reliable officer at once to Omaha to act under special instructions that are to meet-him there, and you're the most reliable man I have. Can you make the night train?" "Easily, colonel."

"So be it, then. I'll have the orders made out at once.'

Several of the battery officers went down to see their leader off. Channing, mained steadfast were assaulted and he worse. Next to an Indian Nathan a moment. "I've written direct to Langdon," he said, "and given him letters to my brother with instructions how to find him. He'll be somewhere out on the line now, I suppose. The only question is, Will Langdon be well enough?"

Melville pondered a moment before the replied:

"Nelson wrote three days ago that it might be a week-that would be till Friday, say. This is Wednesday night. I fancy he'll hardly be strong enough, Channing, but thank you all the same."

Yet when Friday evening came it brought a dispatch for Channing that gave him keen anxiety:

Letter for Langdon here. He disappeared dur-ting morning. No trace. Netson.

CHAPTER V. Ninety miles west of the "Big Missouri" and in the heart of the thriving tewn of Brentwood the rival lines of the Chicago and Seattle and the Chicago and Missouri Valley, popularly known respectively as the "Seattle" and the "Big Horn," crossed each other and the beautiful stream that drainced the valley. The Pawnees long ages ago had called it after the prairie wolf, but their despoilers, the Sioux, rechrisstened if Red Water, declaring it so Thick with the blood of their hereditary foes that it had lost all semblance of blue, and Red Water it remained in name, at least, *hough it speedily lost the sanguinary tint and outvied all the storied streams of Indian land in that it never sulked and sank out of sight in beds of quicksand, never turned into raging torrent and tore things out by the roots, as did the mountain born "Minnes" and "Wakpas" that streaked the lands of the Dakotas to the north, never failed to freeze over in clear, solid ice at the appropriate time in the early winter and to bubble forth again, sparkling and smiling, in the early spring. Fed by innumerable springs and brooks from pine crested heights where the snow lay deep all winter long and only slowly melted for the northering sun, draining a broad, beautiful and fertile valley through which at meandered in long, sweeping, graceful bends and "reaches," moving serenely, steadily, placidly, through mile after mile of fair and peaceful landscape, rarely ruffled by the gales that tswept the uplands long, long leagues to the west or stirred by the savage blizzards that tore through the Dakota community, and the news that troops alert, clear eyed, sturdy men in civilian wastes, it drew to its willow shaded shores by hundreds the hardy settlers perate deeds. Altoona, Pa., July 20.—The visit of Vice President Pierce, of the Amalgamated association, to Duncansville, has proved fruitless. About 250 of heavy yields. the mill workers held a meeting last evening and listened to Vice President Pierce's strike arguments, but when a vote was taken on the subject there were only 10 men who favored phatically opposed to quitting work, fore continue in full operation.

SHAFFER VIOLATED AGREEMENT WITH TIN PLATE COMPANY.

Had No Right to Demand Scale For Non-Unionists-Don't Represent Them.

New York, July 20 .- Mr. Warner Arms, vice president of the American In Plate company, made the following statement Friday to a representative of the Associated Press:

"Mr Shafter wants these companies to sign for all the non-union mills. A wage agreement is a contract entered into voluntarily between two or more persons representing certain interests. Mr. Snaffer has no right to ask these companies to sign an agreement with him for persons ne does not represent. These companies are not antagonistic to labor and have proved it by entering into wage agreements in the past with Mr. Scaffer for those that he represented. This year the American Tin Plate company entered into an agreement for one year, from July 1, but Mr. Shaffer violated that agreement by calling out the men on a sympathetic strike when they had no grievances.

MORGAN SAID THERE

New York, July 20 .- J. P. Morgan gave positive denial yesterday to the rumor of Friday morning that the steel strike had been settled. He made this statement to the Associated Press: "There is not a word of truth n it. There has been no settlement and there can be no compromise on such a question. The position of the operating companies is perfectly simple and well understood, and so far as I am concerned has my unqualified approval." President Schwab, of the United States Steel corporation, declined again Friday to discuss, for publication, the steel strike, a policy which he has preserved since the strike began. His refusal to talk was communicated through his secretary, who would only say: "The president has nothing to say for the present."

Steel and Tin Workers for the sixth district, came to Cleveland Friday, and after a few hours' work among the men, who had been selected by the company to operate the mill, persuaded nearly all of them to refuse to work and to join the ranks of the strikers. ## ANXIETY AS TO FUTURE.

Depressed Securities and Caused Cancellation of Some Merchandise Orders.

New York, July 20 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, said in part:

Anxiety regarding unfavorable possibilities in the future rather than actual present misfortune depressed securities and caused cancellation of The orders for merchandise by western dealers. Retail distribution of goods will not be curtailed by the labor controversy unless it is of long This Out of About 250, Who Attended duration, as the men have saved money during the recent period of 'ull employment at high wages. In the branches not directly concerned there is no change of conditions, gorders frequently running months ahead. Settlement is confidently expected, and there is much relief over the general collapse of the machinists' strike.

Woolen mills are more generally active than at any time this year, orders for heavy weight goods arriving in large numbers. The light weight season will soon open, and although it is NEW ORLEANS, July 20 .- Two expected that concessions of from 5 will be made there is prospect of material should advance. Some uncertainty is seen in the wool market, sellers making future efforts to se cure better terms and ultimately actone is distinctly firmer and stocks at mills and in warehouses decrease.

Calmer counsel prevailed in the grain markets, exaggerated dis-patches were discounted and variations in quotations were less extensive. After a severe break from the best price last Friday wheat steadily advanced as the feeling became gen eral that foreign requirements would bring a new record for exports, possibly exceeding 250,000,000 bushels. Some of the heavy crop may also be used for fodder in sections where corn is deficient. These influences fully offset the effect of interior receipts for the week of 6,750,242 bushels, against only 4,332,253 last year. Atlantic exports show a large gain over last year's figures, for the week 3,902,775 bushels, against 1.841.861 a year ago. After some reaction corn recovered most of the loss and holders showed their confidence in values by marketing only 3,361,942 bushels for the week, aginst 4,416,153 a year ago, although the high price was distinctly reflected in Atlantic sbipments of only 1,176,982

New York, July 20 .- The character of Friday's stock market was much COULD BE NO COMPROMISE. the same as that of Thursday, but there was a conspicuous absence of the late enormous demand which lifted Union Pacific Thursday in the closing dealings. The volume of transacions was rather larger than Thursday, but the market was nevertheless highly professional. Much liquidation had to be absorbed by those who had set themselves the task of supporting the market, and the burden seemed to be too heavy to carry. Prices broke through support in the late dealings and the market closed weak at the lowest of the day. Even those stocks which had shown strength during the day had very little left to show in the way of gains, and the stocks which were conspicuous for strength Thurscay were conspicuously weak. stocks selected as props for the market Friday seemed to be principally among the southern railroads and the Gould southwesterns. Included with the latter were Western Union and Manhattan Texas and Pacific was at one time 3 points over Thursday night and there was large buying in Missouri Pacific. United States Steel stocks seemed to be well under control by insiders and they were marked up sharply over a point each during the period of strength in the market. The sustaining force of these advances, however, was steadily taken advantage of to realize in the railroad Union Pacific, St. Paul and Atchison were the most conspicuous bjects of the selling. Southern Paific at one time broke away from the group and was marked up to 591/8, apparently in pursuance of the design of supporting the market for realizing purposes. The device proved only moderately successful, as did others of the same character. In the late reaction the decline in St. Paul extended to 5%. Union Pacific to 5½. Atchison to 3%. Missouri Pacific to 31/2 and Southern Pacific to 51/2 and Southern Pacific to 3%. Tell of Magical Results Brought About in Burning, Itching, Bleeding Skir Troubles by Dr. Chase's Ointment

Dr. Chare's Ointment draws more praise from ministers, physicians and lawyers than any other medicine in the world. It is en norsed by every profession.

Extracts from their Letters.

Rev. W. N. Edwards, Baptist minister. 109 Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: For over fifteen years the itching piles have been a source of constant annoyance to me, and frequently, too, the suffering has become intense. At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond endurance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. I feel it a duty to fellow sufferers to recommend it."

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minis. ter, Albion, Wis., writes

"My wife was terribly afflicted with protruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure."

"I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled medical skill for twenty-five years. Dr. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold.'

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

" For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. 1 used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me.'

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 192

Dunn avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes: "Ten years ago eczema began on my ears and spread over my head and hands. Dur-ing that time I was a great sufferer. I tried many remedies, and some of the best physicians-specialists on skin diseases-treated me. The first box of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave much relief and five boxes completely cured me. I think my cure a marvel, and gladly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment." Just as good for every form of skip trouble, no matter how long standing. 50 cents a box, all dealers or Dr. A. W. The water pipe on Fourth street burst last evening near the residence of Arch Severs, in Chester. ## An Editor and a Golden Hair.

"One beautiful spring morning an editor found a golden hair lying between the pages of a manuscript,' writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "The moment he reached the page it gracefully fluttered out. Flushed with excitement, the editor 14-tf caught it. It was not his hair, he argued, therefore it was not his property. Then, again, he thought, the owner probably lost it and might need it. So he put it back. He was a methodical man, and he replaced it exactly as he had found it. He was not many days older when he received a letter proving by the very hair he had so dexterously caught and conscientiously replaced that he never had read or even opened the manuscript of the writer. Could anything have been a clearer case against the editor? Most certainly not. It was conclusive and final, don't you

THE MIKADO'S SUCCESSORS

Birth of a Son to the Crown Prince Delights the Loyal Japanese.

Japan has not yet stopped rejoicing over the birth of an heir to Crown Prince Yoshihito, which happy event! occurred a short time ago. The Japanese are for the most part very loyal to the reigning dynasty. This trait of visiting William Hamilton, of Main their character may well be hereditary, ing fatality that Long Island Sound for loyalty to the same dynasty was common in Japan as far back as 600 mikado or emperor of his line. Japanese law allows a prince to succeed to the throne provided that he is the son of the emperor by either the empress or a secondary wife. This is to insure a regular succession from father to son. Neither the present emperor, Mutsuhito, nor his son, Yoshihito, is the son of an empress. It is added matter of rejoicing for the Japanese that the new prince was born to Princess Sadako, the regularly married wife of Yoshihito. Their marriage was celebrated on May 10, 1900.

Crown Prince Yoshihito was born on Aug. 31, 1879, and was proclaimed heir to the throne just eight years later. His wife, the future empress, is a number of years younger and is related to the prince. She is, according to fapanese accounts, a beautiful and highly educated young woman.

It has long been thought that Yoshihito will not live long enough to succeed his imperial father. He has never been very strong and is thought to have a tendency toward consumption. He is short, judged by foreign standards, although of medium Japanese height. Prince Yoshihito has been carefully watched and nursed by his father. The empress is also strongly attached to the young man, although he is not her son. He was described a short time ago as "a bright, brave young man, very fond 30-h ropean clothes, and his costume is that of a soldier. He walks very straight and is dignified. He is fond of boat racing and fishing.
